Quotes "From the first touch of bow to string in "Moscow Gypsy" to the last cry of the cello fading into the distance at the finish of "An Emotional Winter," Pete plays not only on the strings of the Cello and the Guitar, but on the strings of the listeners heart. The chords become a sensual and soothing massage, working through the spiritual tensions that lock up the emotions. Melancholy Cello is not just music for the ears; it is medicine for the soul." – Nana Mex, Global Thunda Network.
